AN OBJECT LESSON

A physician puts the query: Have you ever noticed in any large restaurant at lunch or dinner time the large number o hearty vigorous old men at the tables; years; many of them baid and all perhap gray, but none of them feeble or senile? Perhaps the spectaacle is so common a have escaped your observation or con nent, but nevertheless it is an object le son which means something. If you will notice what these hearty fellows are eating you will observe the hey are not munching bran crackers not gingerly picking their way through a menu card of new-fangled health foods; on th contrary, they seem to prefer a jujey roast and even the deadly broiled lobster is together ignored. The point of all this is that a vis old age depends upon good digestion dieting and an endeavor to live upon crackers.
